DARROW HITS DELAY IN REVEALING DATA

Congressmen Reluctant to Take Sides in Vitriolic Row Between Board Head and NRA Chiefs.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(P)—Clarence Darrow hurled more polished epithets at NRA today and announced an intention of submitting another report on the disputed monopolistic and oppressive trends of that agency which he defied its spokesmen to answer.

Meanwhile, it was made quite clear that Johnson's demand for abolition of the board would be granted, though not by summary dismissal of its membership. It was established by executive order to continue until June 1, and White House officials indicated its life would not be prolonged.

Johnson replied to the second Darrow statement by charging that "camp followers" and not Darrow had written the report.

Darrow's three-page statement today served to prolong the intense controversy aroused by the findings of the national recovery review board of which he is chairman, that the codes are squeezing out small businessmen and increasing the power of the great industrial combines.

Propaganda charged.

To this Hugh S. Johnson, the recovery administrator, and Donald S. Richberg, NRA's general counsel, responded that the Darrow report was an unimpeachable propaganda and demanded that the review board be abolished.

"I collaborated in forming this board because I thought they would point out specific evils that we could correct," said Johnson's statement Monday night. "Mr. Darrow assured me that this was exactly his idea. If we had had only Clarence Darrow and his original review board to deal with, we would have seen some constructive action. It was the camp followers who came in later that made the trouble."

His allusion was to a story current in the capital that the Darrow report, made public today with a vigorous reply from Johnson, was extensively influenced by radical associates of Darrow's.

To the Johnson and Richberg statements, Darrow replied:

"The monopolistic and profiteering that were uncovered by the review board's report had their innings today and with their attorneys, paid and unpaid, filled the air with their clamors."

"When they pause to take breath and reason has a chance to be heard, it may be well to remind the public

Louisiana Priest Asks Public Guillotining

NEW ORLEANS, May 21.—(P)—Public guillotining instead of hanging in Louisiana was urged today by the Rev. Peter M. H. Wynhoven, one of four Catholic priests who witnessed the executions of John Capaci and George Dallas last week.

The two men were almost decapitated when they were hanged at Gretna, across the river from New Orleans, for a killing during a holdup.

"After the gruesome experience of last Friday, I am convinced that a substitute must be found for hanging in Louisiana," Father Wynhoven said.

"The electric chair is not so sure and immediate; the firing squad is uncertain. For a nice, neat job, the old method of the guillotine is the best. There is no physical pain whatsoever with the guillotine. It is clean cut and certain."

Atlanta voters in the September 26 primary will decide whether they want daylight saving time during the summer months, according to a vote of council at Monday afternoon's session, at which a move to ask a second referendum on eastern standard time was defeated.

In addition, council approved an allocation of $212,000 to Atlanta schools to bring salaries for school employees in line with cuts imposed on employees of other city departments.

Aldermen G. Everett Millican and J. Sid Tiller sponsored the school measure. Veto by Mayor James L. Key was anticipated by city hall observers.

Council defeated a resolution by Councilman Howard C. McCutcheon, of the second ward, seeking to have DeKalb and Fulton delegations in the 1935 session of the Georgia assembly sponsor legislation looking to repeal of the state dry laws. Vote on the issue was 12 for passage to 22 against.

McCutcheon announced he would ask council at its next session to set a city-wide referendum on the issue in the September 26 primary.

Vote on Prohibition Measure.

Following is the vote on the McCutcheon measure:

Carpenter, Gilliam, Cobb, Loehr, McCutcheon, White, Berman, Childs, Hastings, Rogers, Beck and Haire for. Total 12.

Scott, Tiller, Mitchell, Bowden, Aldredge, Haller, Millican, Barrett, Cuba, Almand, Bridges, Knight, Owen, Marler, Milam, Decker, Lyle, Johnson, Sutton, Rantin, Rusk and Wilson against. Total 22.

Council sustained Key's veto to an ordinance seeking to set up a separate board of trustees to operate the Albert Steiner cancer ward. Vote was 11 to override to 12 to sustain.

A two-thirds majority of council and the aldermanic board, acting separately, was required to override.

Other Important Action.

Among other important actions of council were the following:

THOMAS JAILED, SPEECH IS HALTED

Socialist May Sue Officer Who Held Him for Nearly an Hour.

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., May 21.—(P)—An attempt by Norman Thomas, socialist party leader, to speak here today brought him a brief detention by authorities after a barrage of tear gas bombs dispersed a crowd which had gathered on Christian county's courthouse lawn to hear him.

Thomas was taken in custody by Deputy Sheriff J. H. Betterton and held incommunicado in the courthouse for nearly an hour. Officials said the former candidate of his party for president had not been arrested and was given his freedom when he promised to make no more speeches in Christian county.

Taylorville officials said permission to hold open air meetings had been refused all applicants during recent months for fear that trouble would be stirred up among the rival mine factions which have fought bitter battles here in the past two years.

With Thomas was held temporarily the Rev. Douglas Anderson, of Illinois, socialist candidate for congress, in the interest of whose candidacy Thomas was speaking in the state.

Upon his release, Thomas said a protest would be made to Governor Henry Horner and Attorney-General Otto Kerner of Illinois.

"I regard this as an arbitrary denial of the right of free speech and an eager to make this a test case about the indiscriminate use of tear gas by irresponsible public officials."

Thomas said he was not told on what charges he was held.

Upon release of Thomas and the candidate, after the crowd dispersed, the socialist leaders consulted an attorney and said they were considering

IT'S UP TO THE WOMEN By Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt

What does the First Lady of the land think about marriage, divorce, children, careers for women, family income, health, the household? The Constitution presents herewith the second of a series of sixty articles, giving her opinion in a chatty, confiding tone as if she talked with you across the tea table. Every word has been written by Mrs. Roosevelt herself. There has been no collaboration.

II—DIVORCE THE SOLUTION

The woman's relationship with her children and her husband may be undergoing a change because women are carrying on outside work and assuming positions with the men in the world of professional and public life in a way which is of necessity changing the home relationship.

Just what it is all going to mean in the future none of us knows as yet, but that the family will persist in some form or other seems inevitable because human needs and cravings seem to be answered best by this association. Even in Russia, where such determined effort was made to change their form of social life, to wipe out the family and establish professional homes where children should be brought up all together, it has proved a failure and the unit of the family still persists.

We do see today, however, a completely changing attitude towards divorce on the part of the younger generation. It is no longer expected that either men or women will sacrifice their lives to an unhappy mistake.

I personally think that probably it would be wiser if marriage were made far more difficult. We are constantly agitating the question of whether there should be uniform divorce laws, but I think it would be more to the point to discuss the question of under what conditions and restrictions people should marry. Anyone thinking seriously about this question from the point of view not only of the mature individuals involved but of children will acknowledge the fact that nothing can be worse for children than to grow up in a home where the atmosphere is one of unhappy and constant bickering.

There is no question but that it is better for children to have a father and a mother who will bring them up in a sympathetic and unifying way, but if what one parent wishes the other parent takes pleasure in destroying, there is no question but that the result will be chaos in the mind of the child. If a man and woman marry and have children and find themselves uncongenial, but are able to keep their home life gracious and bring their children up without a consciousness of disagreement or of bitterness, then it is undoubtedly better for divorce not to be considered, but this requires exceptional people and conditions and cannot easily be done.

It seems to me that the worst possible results are obtained when a

Direct Subsidies Advocated For Marine Trade by Roper

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 21.—(P)—Observance of national maritime day tomorrow, set aside by congress to commemorate the first successful trans-oceanic voyage under steam propulsion by the steamship Savannah in 1819.

Recounting the voyage of the Savannah, Secretary Roper said the symbolic and a challenge for building and maintaining an American merchant marine "second to none in the world."

The problem of building an adequate merchant marine is complicated, he said, by the fact that there is no international standard of wages, material costs, regulations, and the many

ALEXANDER DIES AT DECATUR HOME

Eminent Lawyer and Former U. S. District Attorney Ill 3 Months.

Hooper Alexander, one of the south's best known attorneys and for 43 years a teacher of law and militant fire leader, died unexpectedly Monday night at his residence, 603 Ponce de Leon avenue, Decatur. Though he had been confined to his room for the last three months, he was believed to be improving in health and sat up for a short while Sunday afternoon.

Born in Rome, Ga., on October 6, 1858, the son of Thomas Williamson and Sarah Joyce Hooper, he attended the public schools there and later entered the University of Georgia, where he took his A. B. degree in 1879. He was one of the most brilliant students of his day, particularly in law and legal phases of economics.

He was admitted to the Georgia bar in 1884 and soon became known as one of the ablest lawyers in the state.

Six years later, in 1890, he and a group of lawyers founded the Atlanta Law School, and Mr. Alexander became a member of the faculty, which post he filled for 43 years up until declining health a few months ago forced him to give up that work.

Mr. Alexander was one of the most loyal democrats in Georgia history and was a strong supporter of Woodrow Wilson when he was elected president in 1912. In 1913 Mr. Alexander was appointed United States attorney for the northern district of Georgia and held the post until 1921.

Hit With Own Crutch, Atlantan Badly Hurt

A. R. Trostler, 34, a retired city fireman who lost a leg several years ago while fighting a fire in Atlanta, was in Grady hospital Monday night with a fracture of the skull and police were holding a man who gave the name of W. H. Hembree, 22, of 1808 Lakewood avenue, charged with attacking Trostler with his crutch.

Police said Trostler was assaulted by Hembree on the race track at Lakewood park Monday night. Patrolman W. F. Jones, who arrested Hembree, said the man knocked the fireman's crutches from under him and then struck the fallen man over the head with one of the wooden sticks. Although physicians at Grady said Trostler's condition was "fair," they diagnosed his head injury as serious. Hembree was held at the police station without bond on a charge of drunk and disorderly and is scheduled for trial in recorder's court at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Police said Hembree attacked Trostler without provocation. The fireman's leg was amputated above the knee several years ago when it was badly broken as the result of a fall from a wall while he was helping to extinguish a blaze.

Admiral Byrd Reports 72 Degrees Below Zero

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, May 21.—Via Mackay Radio.—(P)—A temperature of 72 degrees below zero was reported today by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd in his isolated outpost on the Ross ice barrier.

Since the coldest part of the antarctic winter is still to come, this temperature indicated that Admiral Byrd's prediction that his base may be the coldest spot ever inhabited will be fulfilled.

The minimum temperature recorded here today was 60 below.

Admiral Byrd reported that the task of keeping his meteorological instruments in operation is proving troublesome, particularly with rime forming on the contact points used for recording wind direction.

Every few hours he said he has to brush off his instruments, climb the slender 12-foot pole on top of his shack, remove the weather vane and strengthen the contacts.

MINNEAPOLIS RIOT FOLLOWS ARREST OF CONGRESSMAN

Debardeleben Mine in Alabama Again Is Target of Bombers, But Without Serious Damage.

By the Associated Press.

Striking truckmen battled police in the Minneapolis market place Monday with clubs and knives, and only a show of shotguns by the retreating officers subdued the riot after 37 men had been injured.

Congressman Francis H. Shoemaker, broomstick in hand, was nabbed by the police and held on a disorderly conduct charge.

The pickets had gathered to enforce their embargo on shipments of perishable commodities. So effective was the strike that truck operators between Minneapolis and Watertown, S. D., indicated schedules would be halted.

The building trades council called its 35,000 Minneapolis workers out on a sympathetic strike, and the central labor council asked all Minneapolis unions to lend financial and moral support to the truck drivers.

Revolver shots scattered the New Orleans delegates who were on strike and several pickets were arrested. No one was wounded. The shooting occurred as police tried to disperse a gathering of strikers.

Longshoremen at Pacific coast ports tightened up the strike that has persisted since May 1.

Bomb Hurts Employee In Capital Postoffice

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(P)—A bomb which inspectors say was designed for the Balkans exploded in the postoffice dead letter office today, shattering a clerk's hand and slightly injuring a negro messenger.

It was concealed in a hollowed-out book and went off when the volume was opened by Myron L. Genuing.

Genuing was in too critical a condition afterward to tell what happened. He specialized in improperly wrapped or addressed parcels addressed to foreign countries from Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina and the District of Columbia.

W. H. Jackson, the messenger, cut by his glass, from Genuing's table top, said he was bending over another table when the explosion occurred. He looked up to see Genuing, dazed, stumbling about with blood streaming from his head.

U. S. JUDGE RULES CASE IS NOT MOOT, AS STATE CLAIMED

No Time Set for Expiration of Restrainer in Decision; Harrison's Judgment Not Exercised, Ruling Holds.

TALMADGE SCORES U. S. COURT'S ACTION

Governor Says He Will Disregard New Order and Proceed To Name Arbiters in Two Cases.

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 21.—(P)—Outlining his findings and conclusions in a lengthy accompanying document, Federal Judge William H. Barrett today superseded a previous restraining order with a temporary injunction against efforts to arbitrate tax assessments on properties of the Central of Georgia and Savannah and Atlanta railroads.

Although the injunction is temporary, no time is set for its expiration as was the case of the restraining order which was renewed and amended to remain in effect until tomorrow. The extension was granted May 19 following arguments on the initial action of the court.

Judge's Rulings.

In the 24th case, the temporary injunction Judge Barrett held that:

1. That the assessments were made because of the case of the Central of Georgia, and Charles E. Gay Jr., of the Savannah and Atlanta) had "successfully in the courts of the last contest certain reduction in rates which had been made by the Georgia public service commission."

2. That "under his own admission, the assessments were made by the controller general, not as representing his own views, but considered such in line with the declared purposes of the state government."

3. That "the action was not premature, a point raised by counsel for the railroads in the case. These questions were raised by Governor Eugene Talmadge in notifying the court that the state would not be represented at the May 19 hearing after Judge Barrett issued the initial restraining order."

He also held that the action was not premature, a point raised by counsel for the railroads in the case. These questions were raised by Governor Eugene Talmadge in notifying the court that the state would not be represented at the May 19 hearing after Judge Barrett issued the initial restraining order."

All Arbitration Barred.

Judge Barrett's order, issued today following the evidence heard and argued of the case and due consideration to pleadings and proof and in accordance with the opinion and findings of fact and conclusions of this law this date made:

It is considered, adjudged, ordered and decreed by the court that E. Talmadge, governor of the state of Georgia; Charles L. Redding and Jud P. Wilhoit, arbitrators, and future arbitrators if any these should be, hereafter named by the governor of Georgia and all other person or persons acting in concert or participating with the persons named or any of them, in the matter of tax assessment for 1934 for the Central of Georgia, or receiver, et al. be and they

Silverites Predict F.D.R. Message Today

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP)—Senate silverites said today they expected a message tomorrow from President Roosevelt which would recommend the silver program already agreed upon with the administration. The principal provision of the proposal, they said, would be a mandatory declaration of policy that silver should be added to the monetary reserves until it reaches a 25-75 ratio with gold.

Permissive nationalization, or the taking over of domestic stocks of the metal, also is to be included in the program.

Once the message is received, the bill to carry out its terms is to be submitted for the pending Dies silver bill, already reported by the senate agriculture committee.

are hereby jointly and severally temporarily enjoined until final hearing and decision, from taking any further action looking to arbitration of tax assessments or for making effective assessments as made or from enforcing same."

WILL DISREGARD ORDER.

GOV. TALMADGE ASSERTS

Governor Eugene Talmadge Monday night termed Judge Barrett's decision an "action against the sovereignty of the state of Georgia" and asserted that he would disregard the court's injunction against arbitration of tax assessments on the property of the Central of Georgia and Savannah and Atlanta railroads.

He said he meant to pursue the plans he announced following Judge Barrett's granting the restraining order a week ago. At that time the governor said he intended to appoint more arbiters and proceed with the arbitration of the tax cases and that only after the arbitration had been completed would there be excuse for court action.

"This order as issued by the judge is much the same as that of a week ago," Georgia's chief executive said. "It is clearly an action against the sovereignty of the state of Georgia."

"The order seems to attempt to prohibit officers of the state from exercising their judgment and discretion. After the officers pass upon a tax assessment the aggrieved parties always have a remedy at law if they can prove that the findings were confiscatory," asserted Governor Talmadge.

DARROW SCORES JOHNSON AND AID

of certain basic facts totally and no doubt intentionally, disregarded in these infuriated clamors.

"This board was not created to analyze industries, to devise defenses for NRA nor to weigh the intricacies of factory and corporation management. It was created for two purposes and two only. First, to discover if under the codes monopolistic practices existed; second, to discover if under the codes, small enterprises were oppressed."

Two Conclusions.

"In pursuit of these purposes, I conducted its investigations and reached its conclusions: 1. That in certain industries monopolistic practices existed; 2. That in certain industries small enterprises were oppressed."

Darrow assailed the administration for delaying publication of the review board's report until Johnson and Richberg could prepare replies to accompany it. They, he said, apparently regard NRA as their "personal property" and "break into shrieks of rage at the suggestion that operations are not perfect or are susceptible of improvement."

Still Worse.

The board's second report, the statement said, would review additional industries in which conditions were "even worse than in those that have severed Mr. Richberg's vision." Darrow added:

"When his perturbed soul has regained its calm, if ever, we will venture two suggestions to him. First, it is exceedingly unseemly for a man occupying a public position in this country to assume that the nation is his personal property and any criticism of any national activity is a personal affront."

"There is nothing in democracy that is above criticism, not even NRA, and if there could be democracy would cease to exist. Second, we should advise him to keep together and well in hand his staff of expert evasions. When he comes to read the next report of this board it is likely that he will need more than 157 pages to steer around its contents."

Monopoly Support.

Finally, said Darrow, one question remained to be answered:

"Does the administration wish to be understood as supporting monopolies?"

"The strange course pursued in regard to this report and some of the explosions from the general and Mr. Richberg might be deemed to justify such a thought. And if the small enterprises, whose grievous complaints by the thousands are in the files of this board cannot look to their government for relief, where shall they turn?"

The Darrow report had its repercussions in congress, too, with both the independent republicans and the conservatives of that party finding it material to their liking.

No in Record.

Representatives Britten, republican, Illinois, tried to have the report incorporated in the Congressional Record, but objections from democrats, Blanton of Texas and O'Connor of New York, prevented.

"It's a democratic report and democrats object to it," remarked Britten. Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, who, for months, has asserted NRA fostered monopolies, said that when he resumed his campaign for reinstatement of the anti-trust laws, he would use his own data and statistics to support his cause.

Robinson Defends.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, said in a formal statement:

"The Clarence Darrow report finds fault with the administration of the NRA, as promoter of monopoly to the detriment of small business."

"The promulgation of hundreds of codes changing long established customs and practices constitutes a task of very difficult performance to the satisfaction of everyone concerned."

"The task of the national recovery administration is very difficult and great. It is clear that its final success depends upon the continuance of an impartial policy with the general welfare of the country as its primary object."

Senator Hastings, of Delaware, chairman of the republican senatorial campaign committee, said:

"This report coming from a board appointed with the approval of the president cannot be said to bear the earmarks of malicious partisanship."

"If the NRA is to continue and this board 'abolished forthwith,' as recommended by General Johnson, then the congress owes it to the people of the nation to set up a board on its own account to keep the people advised as to how a real recovery operates in this country."

Meanwhile, Attorney-General Cummings was analyzing the Darrow report. His associates said it would be "several days" before he completed it.

"WAS TAKING EVERY KIND OF DRUG FOR CONSTIPATION"

Then ALL-BRAN Brought Relief

Read this very enthusiastic letter:

"I am 34 years old and as far back in my life I have been constipated. I was so bad that I had one bowel movement every five or six days. I was taking every kind of drug known for constipation."

"Now for the last two months I have been eating a little ALL-BRAN night and morning and I have at least two to three bowel movements each day."—Mr. Frank Piratzky, 40-66 98th St., Corona, Long Island, New York.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN is also a fine source of iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, this clears out the intestinal wastes.

Isn't this safer than taking harmful patent medicines? Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. Severe cases with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

You'll enjoy eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or cream—sugar or honey or fresh fruits added. Or, to use in cooking.

In the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

It's not in your palm, but in your face that people read your fortune. And the peach-bloom complexion that comes with Camay is something that ought to be yours. So get yourself a Camay Complexion. Before your own eyes, as you look in your mirror, you'll see a prettier woman. For your skin will have a smoother, clearer texture. Then the Soap of Beautiful Women will be your soap. For a few weeks of Camay makes any girl glad that she has a skin to be proud of.

A CAMAY COMPLEXION AND ANOTHER BEAUTY CONTEST WON!
Beauty Contests are silly things—when you think of a lot of "bathing beauties" and publicity seekers parading and posing before the beauty judges' stand. Yet you and every other woman in the world are in a life-long Beauty Contest. Each day puts your beauty to the test. Every friend you have, every new man you meet, is a judge of your charm. And if you have a Camay Complexion, so much the better for you. For compliments and admiration are the rewards for the girl who is pretty. A young instructor of dramatics says of Camay, "Its lather fluffs up so richly and rinses so readily that I can always feel sure my skin is thoroughly cleansed."

Try Camay and convince yourself! For if you don't, you'll be missing the perfect soap—the soap that can be a boon to your beauty!

For Camay is made by its own secret blending process—of the most delicate oils. Because of its careful blending and pure ingredients, Camay is the perfect beauty soap!

a new petition intended to bring the measure to the floor for action.

Report Only Dogma.

Johnson prefaced his statement with an assertion that Darrow was "a grand old man" who long had held his "admiration and affection," but that he did have to answer the attorney's questions.

"He asks," said Johnson, "if it is true that monopolistic practices exist under specified codes? If they do, his report does not specify what or where they are. It simply finds 'generalities.' It could have said all that without any hearings at all."

"The report is simply dogma. Perhaps there are some monopolistic abuses of the codes, but there are no monopolistic codes."

"As I have frequently said, some people, who want to make profits by paying less than subsistence wages, or to live off the labor of children, have suffered some loss of ancient extortionist privileges. That loss accounts for something like 90 per cent of the complaint of 'oppression of small enterprises' which fills the air with this political propaganda."

Small Men Saved.

"I think the law intended to secure subsistence wages. I think the American people want that. If such is not the intent, let's change the law, but let's not blame NRA for carrying out a congressional mandate."

"Beyond this (which the board does not mention), the truth is all the other way. The bituminous coal code not only saved thousands of small personally owned mines but it actually brought more thousands of them back into operation."

"The lumber code and all the textile codes saved hundreds of small mills. The retail code interfered just in time to prevent great chains from gobbling up what was left under the anti-trust acts, of the little retail stores."

"Rubber tire code arrested a wholesale slaughter of tens of thousands of tire dealers. It is monopolistic cut-throat price cutting that destroys the little fellow—and not provisions such as are in the codes against selling below cost."

"The effect of nearly all the codes is to stop and turn back the slaughter of the little fellow that has been going on under the anti-trust acts for the past 16 years."

"This is not just argument. It is cold hard fact and to the extent that this board perverts that fact or ignores it entirely—it slanders NRA, when it talks about monopolistic practices hurting the little fellow under the codes."

Nye Not Informed.

Senator Nye, republican, North Dakota, although saying he had not had time to give the report close study, added it was apparent from the report that "many codes are working destruction for small business and entrenching monopoly."

He intends to speak on the report soon.

For the conservatives, Senator Hastings, republican, Delaware, chairman of the republican senatorial campaign committee said the report demonstrated "the danger of abandoning the federal constitution and the establishment of an autocracy to control the business of the nation or any other important activity involving the freedom of action that is not harmful to others."

Chairman Connery, of the house labor committee, vigorous proponent of a compulsory 30-hour-week bill said that if his measure had been passed a year ago instead of the NIRA "we would have saved the government and business millions of dollars. We would have been out of the woods by now instead of being in not controversy."

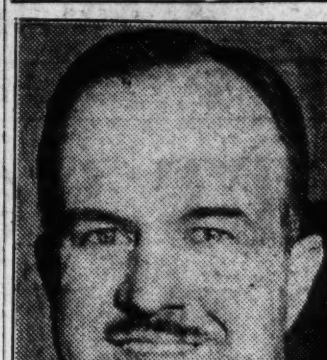

An effort by Connery to force a vote on his bill last week was blocked by administration leaders. Today he filed

Executive Optimistic

A. A. McFall, vice president of the Columbian National Life Insurance Company, of Boston, was the guest Monday of Alfred C. Newell, general agent. Mr. McFall is homeward bound after a trip to the western agencies. He is very optimistic over the business conditions, especially the life insurance business. He said: "The insurance business for the first four months of this year has shown a decided improvement in volume of business. The real improvement has been in the number of sales, which indicates to me that the public generally is thinking more of the life insurance business than it has for several years in the past."

DIRECT SUBSIDIES ASKED BY ROPER

other varying factors which enter into shipbuilding and operation.

"Our high standard of living," he said, "brings our merchant marine into a very challenging competition with other countries where working and living standards are lower than ours. Due to the higher standards of living and wage scales, the shipbuilding, ship repair and ship operation costs under the American flag are generally acknowledged to be higher than those in other leading maritime nations."

In view of the problems of labor and other extra cost differentials, he said, congress worked out a plan to let the government supplement the earnings of the ship operators with ocean mail pay.

"It seems to me," he added, "that the present form of aid through ocean mail pay might be replaced properly by specific subsidies granted for the maintenance of measurable and essential services. Such subsidies should be based on differentials in building costs, repair costs, and operating costs as compared with the costs of similar items in foreign countries. Provisions about also be made for trade development subsidies whenever such developments are considered to be in the public interest."

Concurrent with the initiation of any subsidy program must come reorganization and stabilization of our entire merchant marine, structure. Consolidations and amalgamations are advisable in order to develop major self-sustaining trunk lines and feeder-line services. Such voluntary reorganizations among the ship operators would go hand in hand with needed alterations in frequency of service, schedules of ports visited, and any other changes required to eliminate costly and destructive competition between lines."

BULGARIAN COUP 'RINGS' GERMANY

Action of Pro-French Faction Leaves Fatherland 'Fenced In.'

By STANLEY G. THOMPSON. Associated Press Foreign Staff.

The coup d'etat in Bulgaria, placing in power a group considered pro-French and removing men regarded as influenced by Italy, was looked upon in most European capitals Monday as furnishing the one link needed to isolate Nazi Germany in the middle of a military alliance.

While no agreement has been signed, the projected alliance of friends France has been widely discussed. If carried out, the defense chain would touch every border of Germany and would be the strongest European combination since the Holy Roman Empire.

Soviet Swinging.

Soviet Russia has given indications that she is just about ready to enter the League of Nations, and to join in a mutual assistance pact with France for the protection of the European borders.

The pact, of course, would be open to Germany, if she returned to the League, but its purposes would be attained equally regardless of the Nazi government's attitude.

The fact that Bulgaria's new fascist regime immediately announced its intention of recognizing the Soviet Union was pleasing to the sponsors of the pact.

Russia and Turkey, another nation whose co-operation is believed to be sought, already are friendly.

Recognition Seen.

The little entente—Rumania, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia—have recognized Russia, but French influence is expected to be brought to bear to open diplomatic intercourse. France and Germany are regarded now as strong diplomatic accomplices.

The greatest diplomatic accomplishment of the Hitler regime was a non-aggression pact with Poland, entered into despite the friction between the countries which has rendered the pact inoperative since the World War remade the map.

Poland and France have professed friendship time and again, but the surface there are signs that Poland may act independently at any time.

No Vassal.

"Poland refuses to be a vassal of France," said a spokesman at Geneva "but she is willing to co-operate with France."

One thing appeared certain—Poland will demand a permanent seat on the League of Nations council, if Russia comes to the pact, as it takes such a place. Otherwise, Poland would object to the admission of the Soviet Union.

Out of the proposed pact Russia would obtain European security which would enable her to devote major attention to the Siberian frontier, where the situation is regarded as tense.

The pact would strengthen the other nations to protect the eastern Russian front, but the Soviet Union appears now to believe it can handle the situation on its own terms.

There is no concern over the European border.

Louis Barthou, French foreign minister returning to Paris from Geneva, where he talked with Maxim Litvinoff, Russian commissar for foreign affairs, said that he made "a trip around the horizon" with the Soviet minister.

Persons close to Barthou indicated that Russian co-operation in the proposed alliance was expected.

The Bulgarian change of government found a favorable reaction in Yugoslavia, where hopes were high that the old Macedonian difficulties were near an end and that a new era of Balkan co-operation and solidarity had arrived.

Greece received the news with less pleasure, with some fears that Bulgarian nationalists may seek treaty revisions.

BULGARIAN LEADERS

REORGANIZING STATE

SOFIA, Bulgaria, May 21.—(AP)—Premier Kimon Georgiev and his small cabinet worked today on their plans for reorganizing the Bulgarian nation along "authoritative" lines.

The cabinet called in a body on King Boris, whose decrees put the fascist group into power after the bloodless military coup d'etat Saturday.

To emphasize the economy plank of their platform, most of the ministers refused motor transportation and strolled through the streets to the royal palace for the meeting with the king.

The city was quiet, and not one of the soldiers who occupied public buildings and guarded streets day before yesterday was in evidence.

The premier chuckled good-naturedly as he greeted newspapermen and photographers on his way to the palace.

He avoided direct discussion of a report that the present small group in charge of the government will step aside as soon as it has completed its reorganization tasks.

"It is our intention," he said, "to give this country a strong, stable government," adding that the purpose of the coup d'etat was "not to change persons but to change the system."

The foreign office, meanwhile, refused to take seriously reports from outside the country that there had been disturbances in Macedonia as a result of the change in government.

YUGO-SLAVIA PLEASED

BY CHANGE AT SOFIA

BELGRADE, Yugo-Slavia, May 21.—(AP)—Expressions of satisfaction with the change in the Yugo-Slavian press and official circles.

"The future is to be expected," said the semi-official newspaper, Vreme, since the economic and political situation, so aggravated lately by political passions, had been raised to a point where dictatorship was the only remedy."

The newspaper Stampa looked upon the coup d'etat as a benefit to Yugo-Slavia, emphasizing the likelihood that the Macedonian movement, long a hindrance to pleasant relations, would be smashed.

The official press generally was that the new government has ended Italian influence in Bulgaria and substituted a pro-French policy.

GREEKS ARE PERTURBED

BY BULGARIAN ACTION

ATHENS, May 21.—(AP)—Apprehension over the future course of the new Bulgarian government was expressed by the Greek press today.

Fears that the new regime at Sofia may seek treaty revisions and thus stir strife in the Balkans were expressed, and the government press referred to the timeliness of the recent four-power Balkan security pact.

Greece, Rumania, Turkey and Yugo-Slavia signed the pact in February, guaranteeing the territorial security of the four countries for 10 years.

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Suffering

If you think an operation is always the only way to escape the misery of torturing piles it's because you haven't heard of Hem-Roid, the harmless internal medicine discovered by a western physician.

After years of study Dr. J. S. Leachman was convinced that the cause of Piles was internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel—the hemorrhoidal veins filled with stagnant blood—and that the right and safe way to get freedom from Pile agony was to remove the cause with an internal medicine. Immediately the doctor set to work to find the remedy. He succeeded in calling his prescription HEM-ROID.

Pile sufferers everywhere are benefiting by Dr. Leachman's discovery, so why doubt or delay longer when Jacob's Drug Store and all drug stores have one bottle of Hem-Roid. The harmless internal medicine discovered by a western physician.

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP)—Swift and Company, one of the nation's largest meat packing concerns, today was charged with violation of the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust acts in a suit brought by the Hansen Packing Company, of Butte, Mont., in federal court. Damages of $6,000,000 are sought.

It was alleged by the Hansen company that Swift & Company had cut prices wherever Hansen was a competitor, and that goods were sold under their cost, causing Hansen & Company actual losses of $1,000,000 since 1931.

Triple damages are sought for the $1,000,000 Hansen asserted it lost during this period and punitive damages of $3,000,000 more.

Surplus Established By Processing Taxes

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP)—A $30,856,921 surplus of collections from processing taxes over expenditures by the farm administration up to April 30 was shown today in a comparison of internal revenue bureau figures with the record of rental and benefit payments made under farm administration crop control plans.

Processing and compensating taxes from July 1, 1933, to May 1 totaled $285,089,956 as against $254,230,035 paid out by the farm administration. Of the latter figure $185,380,511 went directly to cotton, wheat, tobacco and corn-hog farmers for acreage reduction. The sum of $55,016,336 was spent in removing surplus supplies of hogs, wheat, butter and cheese from the market and $13,833,187 went for administration expenses.

By July 1 the farm administration expects collections to lag behind expenditures by approximately $90,000,000.

Monte Carlo Denied Right To Sue on Mississippi Bonds

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP)—The supreme court today denied the little principality of Monaco, home of Monte Carlo, the right to file suit against Mississippi in an effort to collect on some bonds that state issued long before the Civil War.

Chief Justice Hughes, delivering the decision, declared consent of Mississippi would be required to permit such a suit. Mississippi had refused to give its consent.

This was the first ruling by the high court on the right of a foreign state to sue a state of the United States without its permission.

The question which Monaco sought to raise should be settled through diplomacy and not the courts, the court added.

The bonds were issued in 1831, 1833 and 1838 to raise gold for state banks. In 1875 Mississippi adopted a constitutional amendment prohibiting any further payments on them.

18 Cases Handled.

Preparing for adjournment on May 24, the court got rid of 18 cases, leaving only 12 on its docket to be disposed of by decisions on the next two Mondays.

The court ruled that Ohio must pay federal taxes on its monopoly on the sale of intoxicating liquor and that Arizona should not be permitted to take testimony at this time for possible use in attacking in the future the distribution of water at Boulder dam.

The Columbus Gas &amp; Fuel Company had assailed the validity of a 48-cent rate on gas at Columbus, Ohio, and the court set aside that rate on a finding that allowance had not been made for amortizing the wasting assets through the consumption of gas.

Radio Patent Case.

Lee DeForest was again declared the first inventor of the feed back circuit and the oscillating audio, outstanding inventions in radio and other forms of communication. The DeForest patents are owned by the Radio Corporation of America, the American Telephone &amp; Telegraph Company and the DeForest Radio Company.

It was the second time the high court declared DeForest the prior inventor over Edwin Armstrong.

The owners of the DeForest patents sued the Radio Engineering Laboratories, Incorporated, of Brooklyn, N. Y., for infringement, but the second circuit court of appeals, which was reversed today, held the DeForest patents invalid, declaring Armstrong the first inventor.

Memoranda and other papers made in Florida evidencing sales of stock on exchanges outside Florida were declared by the court to exempt from the Florida documentary stamp tax.

Ikes Granted Review.

Secretary Ikes was granted a review of a case in which he asserted the act of February 25, 1920, conferred on the secretary of the interior authority to cancel claims to oil shale lands under the mining act of 1872 on the failure of the locator to perform required work.

The court refused to rule whether graduates of Tulane University, Louisiana, holding from that university the degree of bachelor of laws, are entitled to practice law in that state without passing an examination for admission to the bar before the committee of bar examiners of the state supreme court.

W. D. Striplin, of Corinth, Miss.,

was denied a review of the refusal of the courts of that state to require the Lawrenceburg Warehouse Company of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., and the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company, to reimburse him for cotton lost when the warehouse of the Lawrenceburg company was burned in December, 1929.

Florida Decision Upheld.

The receiver of the First National Bank of St. Augustine, Fla., was denied a review of a decision by the fifth circuit court of appeals requiring him to pay out of bonds of the bank in the hands of the treasurer of Florida certain claims of the heirs at Pantaleon F. Carcaba.

The court sustained taxes imposed by Mississippi on land in Tunica county, Mississippi, owned by S. M. and W. E. Nickey, of Tennessee, and Mrs. Orpha L. Nickey, of California, and the collection of taxes out of other property of the Nickeys in the state.

HOUSING MEASURE
BACKED, OPPOSED*Baltimore Real Estate
Official Says Bill Would Ruin Loan Associations.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP)—Testimony that enactment of the administration's housing bill was imperative to ease the "strain" on the Home Owners' Loan Corporation was countered today with the assertion that the measure would mean "ruin" for many building and loan associations.

In asking the senate banking committee to approve the legislation, John H. Fahey, chairman of the loan corporation, told of the flood of applications which have been received from distressed home owners.

He was followed by Harry E. Karr, counsel for the real estate board of Baltimore, who objected particularly to the provisions which would authorize formation of National Mortgage Associations. He said private agencies were in no position to compete with them.

Fahey said up to May 11 his corporation had received 1,343,194 applications for aid from mortgage-burdened home owners and that the total amount represented by these pleas was $4,300,684,929, or a sum more than double the $2,000,000,000 voted by congress for home mortgage relief.

Fahey said about 66,000 applications had been rejected and that 32,017 were withdrawn. The loans closed up to May 11 he said represented $681,052,741.

"That leaves you about 1,000,000 applications to act on?" Chairman Fletcher, democrat, Florida, asked.

The corporation chairman nodded agreement.

Karr said the national mortgage associations proposed by the bill would pay no taxes "even though they are organized for profit" and "that no building and loan association would be able to compete with them."

He opposed also the insurance provisions of the administration bill and said the additional levies on building and loans associations "would mean liquidation of the majority of our (Baltimore) concerns."

Mrs. Bonnie Wagner, bride, who was driving the car which hit Cole, was placed under technical arrest.

VETERAN ENGINEERS*SEEK MEMORIAL AID

Survivors of the third United States volunteer engineers, noted army regiment which participated in the Spanish-American War, at a meeting here to celebrate the 35th anniversary of being mustered out of service, unanimously adopted a resolution asking congress to approve a measure providing for the establishment of a special commission authorized to sponsor the erection of a permanent memorial to Thomas Jefferson in recognition of the nation's "first territorial expansion" under his administration.

The proposed congressional measure provides for the memorial "without appropriation by the United States," and the senate has already acted favorably upon it. The proposal was first submitted to the national legislative body by Spanish War veterans in St. Louis, Mo., and the funds required would be raised by public subscription.

MAE MURRAY LOSES SUIT FOR $300,000 BUT 'KAYOES' FOE

NEW YORK, May 21.—(P)—Mae Murray lost a legal battle today, but scored a technical "kayo" on the opposition with a left to the jaw.

It was a one-punch affair—wholly because her attorney stopped the business that three Justice Anton Steiner's supreme courtroom in a latter of excitement.

"I will attend to you—you'll get yours," screamed the actress, tears running down her face.

"You" was Betram H. Meyers, attorney for Tiffany Productions, Inc., who had just won a dismissal of Miss Murray's defense was inadequate and was due her on moving pictures.

Justice Steiner had left the bench when a picture company attorney whispered to Miss Murray: "Now you've got justice."

In best boxing parlance, Miss Murray's reaction was a "haymaker."

Mayer's defense was inadequate and Miss Murray won the round without a struggle.

"I did not get justice—I never got justice in my life," she sobbed when it became apparent hostilities had definitely ceased.

The actress earlier had become agitated when Henry H. Conner, president of the producing company, told the court her value as a star had depreciated after she had made the first two of the eight pictures on which she demanded an accounting.

Gotham Again Allows

NEW YORK, May 21.—(P)—The bar-fly—long-suffering fellow—put his foot down in New York today.

He put it down on a brass rail. This was done with the approval of the state alcoholic beverage control board, which decided that, after all, there is nothing wrong about perpendicular drinking.

Since the repeal of prohibition, the feet of Gotham's drinkers have been futilely groping for rails that weren't there.

In restaurants and bars, this little drama was enacted today, over and over.

"Mix 'em up, Eddie."

Then the settling of the elbows on the counter, the planting of the foot on the rail.

Friendly Counsel By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: As well as I can remember you recently advised a boy and girl to take their parents into their confidence about being in love with each other. Oh yeah! It sounds fine and I don't mean to be rude but you don't know parents like mine or you wouldn't give that advice. They never change their minds once they are made up. I have one friend who is rich. Mother and father like him. The other is gentle, clean, high-minded, yet he has no money. My parents hate him. They have forbidden me to date him and have made violent threats as to what they will do if I defy their wishes. When I refuse to go out with the rich boy they make life unbearable. I can't go out with him very often because I love another and it makes him unhappy for me to be so much with the rich boy. When I see the one I love I must tell 10,000 lies. I am sick of it. Now, Miss Chatfield, tell me what to do in a case like this.

Answer: Surely so long as a girl lives in her parents' home, dependent upon them for everything she eats and wears and spends, it is only right that she should take the advice they offer about her boy-friends, because by reason of their age and experience of life they know many things she doesn't know. When she makes an unreasonable prejudice, they are in a better position to judge the character of those friends than is the girl herself.

When she can support herself, when she is independent of her parents financially, then she may have the moral right to make her own decision as to whom she shall love and whom she shall marry, but even then she runs a big risk in ignoring their advice. If she falls in love with a poor boy who can say "I love you and want to put you on the shelf until I am ready to take you down," her parents read in that declaration a threat to her future. They know that a love affair of this sort may wear itself out or burn itself out before the boy can accumulate enough to get married. What parents wouldn't try to interfere in such a case?

A young girl's estimate of the boy she loves is not worth a pinch of snuff. She doesn't think beyond his looks, his clothes, his manners and his attentions to her. He may be a wolf in sheep's clothing and she will never suspect it. He may lack every qualification for making her a suitable husband and she will not understand it. If he happens to be in a position to ask her to marry him she can defy her parents and marry him, but if he can't then she has one of two courses open to her: either to tell 10,000 lies, make dates with him on the sly, or to accede to her parents' wishes and wait until a good time with the boys they do approve.

It is remarkable how many love problems are, in the last analysis, financial problems. Marriage is the logical outcome of love and money is the determining influence in marriage.

Girls and boys, if you want to make your own decisions as to who you shall love and who you shall marry, get to work and earn the right to put you on the shelf until you are in no other way.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Compromise Reached On Exchange Power

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(P)—House and senate conferees struck a compromise today on the disputed question of how much power the stock exchange regulating commission should have to require financial reports and statements from corporations with listed securities.

They accepted a senate provision giving the commission authority to require whatever information it might deem necessary for the protection of investors when a new issue was to be listed.

For the period after listing, however, they approved house language limiting the frequency of financial reports to quarterly, leaving unchanged a clause requiring the corporations to keep the original information reasonably up to date.

Manufacturers Meet Today For Discussion of New Deal

HOUSE APPROVAL SEEN ON TWO BANKING BILLS

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(P)—A sudden burst of speed engendered by presidential pressure made certain today, leaders said, that the house would pass two highly important administration banking bills before the week-end.

One would authorize loans of $440,000,000 to industry through the 12 federal reserve banks and the RFC; the other would postpone inauguration of the permanent deposit insurance plan until July 1, 1935.

The house rules committee granted legislative preference to the first, which will be called up on the floor tomorrow with leaders seeking a vote before midnight.

The second, approved today by the banking committee after more than two months of consideration, will follow Wednesday or Thursday.

The industry loan measure followed administration recommendations throughout, but the best Chairman Stengall, democrat, Alabama, of the banking committee could say of the deposit insurance bill was that "I presume it will meet with administration approval although I haven't discussed details."

Besides postponing inauguration of the permanent deposit insurance plan which would otherwise have become law July 1, guaranteeing deposits on a graduated scale up to 50 per cent of those over $50,000, the bill approved today by the banking committee also would:

Increase from $2,500 to $5,000 the accounts insurable under the temporary plan.

Permit mutual savings banks, in the discretion of the federal deposit insurance corporation, to insure deposits up to $2,500 or $5,000, if these banks agree to meet the additional assessments and obligations.

Repeat the law which requires that all state banks must belong to the federal reserve system after July 1, 1936, in order to have their deposits insured.

There were indications a rider authorizing about $75,000,000 in Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans to school districts where teachers' pay is in arrears, such as Chicago, might be attached as a rider to the industry loan bill tomorrow.

OIL HEAD REQUESTS PRODUCTION CONTROL

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(P)—The oil administration appealed today to a senate sub-committee for production control legislation this session with a warning from Secretary Ickes that a great increase in the movement of illegally produced oil might result if congress did not act.

Ickes, the petroleum administrator, appeared to urge enactment of the Thomas bill, which would give the administrator almost complete control over production and movement of oil.

CHATTahoochee DATA HELD UP FOR ADDITION

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(P)—The engineers' survey of the Apalachicola-Chattahoochee river system, on its way to congress in formal report, has been held up for supplementary information, the engineers said. The report was ready to be submitted two weeks ago, they said, when it was favorable as drafted. It was not known whether the additional information would alter the recommendation.

Prominent Industrialists
From 13 States Will Tell
Delegates of Results of NRA.

Whether or not the NRA is a success in the south will be discussed today at a south-wide conference of southern manufacturers from 13 states, meeting at the Biltmore hotel.

Prominent manufacturers who will make addresses indicated that their talks will be of particular pertinence, as the subject comes up simultaneously with the controversy over the new deal which now is raging in Washington.

The opening session, a breakfast meeting of the board of directors, will begin at 8:30 o'clock this morning.

The general meeting will begin in the ballroom of the Biltmore at 9:30 o'clock. The Rev. Herman L. Turner, pastor of the Covenant Presbyterian church, will offer the invocation and Colonel John E. Edgerton, Lebanon, Tenn., president of the southern states industrial council, under whose auspices the conference is being held, will preside.

Among those who will address the conference during the day's session will be, in addition to the opening address of Colonel Edgerton, W. D. Anderson, president Bibb Manufacturing Company, Macon; Donald Comer, president Avondale mills, Birmingham, Ala.; John S. Fletcher, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Charles M. Seymour Knoxville, Tenn.; Forney Johnson, Birmingham; J. S. Ames, president Selma Manufacturing Company, Selma, Ala., and others.

At noon there will be held three luncheon meetings, namely, one of the resolution committee, another of the members of code authorities from the 13 southern states and a general luncheon meeting. J. P. McGrath, secretary of the Georgia Manufacturers' Association, will look after the resolution committee meeting. W. D. Anderson will preside at the code authority meeting, while Colonel Edgerton preside at the general luncheon meeting.

The conference proper will resume at 2 o'clock for the specific purpose of discussing and considering the important question of wage differential as between the south and the rest of the country. The question will be discussed under the general theme of "The South in Its Relation to the New Deal."

The conference will close with a dinner meeting in the ballroom of the Biltmore hotel to be addressed by Dr. Gus W. Dyer, editor-in-chief of the Southern Agriculturalist, Nashville, whose subject will be "The New Deal and the Industrial Development of the South."

The dinner meeting is open to the public and the plates will be $1.50. Dr. Dyer, in addition to being the editor of a leading agricultural journal, is of the department of economics of Vanderbilt University, Nashville.

The meeting today is principally for the purpose of taking stock to find out if the NRA is working satisfactorily in the south and if not what changes, if any, can be made in order that the industry might continue to grow and expand, it was announced.

The meeting is sponsored not only by the Southern States' Industrial Council, but by the following Georgia organizations: Georgia Manufacturers' Association, Southern Metal Trades, Georgia Ice Manufacturers' Association, Coca-Cola Bottlers' Association, Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, Cotton Manufacturers' Association and others.

Education of Youth Is Conference Topic

KANSAS CITY, May 21.—(P)—The problem of youth, made more acute by inadequate employment, occupied a major position in discussions at the 61st annual conference of social work today.

Support also was evidenced in addresses and discussions for the trend toward nationalization of social work. Miss Lea B. Taylor, head resident of the Chicago Commons and president of the National Federation of Settlements, said there is little opportunity to turn education into paying jobs and thus the incentive to overcome obstacles to obtain an education is lacking.

Mrs. Margaret Wells Wood, field representative of the American Social Hygiene Association, stressed harm of marathon dances and walkathon contests and said that legislation had been enacted, or was being formulated, in many localities, to prohibit such cozzests.

Better motion pictures, national health insurance, a broadened federal work program to provide a job for everyone needing it, the cure of rural discontent, proper use of leisure time—all were discussed in group meetings.

Five Men... AND FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS

FIVE men sat around a table—the Trust Committee of the bank. And for nearly two hours, those five men analyzed and debated a five hundred dollar investment, part of an estate in trust.

I wish that every man with the slightest doubt concerning the careful scrutiny which the Trust Department gives to estates in its charge, could have sat in on that meeting.

It was dramatic to me, but, as I discovered later, the fixed procedure of the Trust Department. Regularly, estate investments are reviewed and continued or changed as conditions at the time dictate. These five experienced men must concur unanimously on each investment or the security is rejected.

How many men in this city are prepared to say that when they die, their families will have the benefit of experienced counsel and continuous checking of their estates, such as these men were giving that five hundred dollar parcel?

I say to every man or woman who is looking to the future—by all means come into the bank and talk to a Trust Officer—you will learn much of value and there will be no obligation beyond the decision of your own judgment.

RESTLESS WOMEN
BY JANE DIXON

INSTALLMENT II.

Pierre Reynal had been dead three years.

Early September sunshine sifted thin and warm over the beach at Sandharbor. An inbound tide, clamoring toward the shore, sent fine sheets of water, like lace-edged fans, spreading and riffling across the sands. The clear blue sky, the tepid air flaged with the tang of sea salt, made this a day for dreaming or for doing—according as one inclines to dream or to do.

Sandra Reynal, scuffling through the edges of the water-lans, stopped to watch a line of fading smoke drifting over the horizon.

"Oh, to be aboard that ship! Going somewhere, anywhere. Any place—anything—but, this!" She flung herself prone on the warm white sand. The bathing suit she wore, once a bright green, now rusty moss, offered scant protection to her slim body, bronzed by wind and waves and sun. Sea spray anmassed her hair into a halo of burnished copper and internal rebellion brought a steel glint into eyes darkly gray.

"The polished bronze body, the copper halo, the steely lights in her eyes, clothed Sandra with a metallic lustre as she lay there, staring into the sky without seeing its blue, hearing the crash and lisp of the waves without being conscious of their music."

"I hate myself," she kept murmuring in the rhythm of the sea. "I hate every one. I hate everything. I hate—"

Her hymn of hate was cut short by a voice calling to her from a distance down the beach. "Sandra!"

The voice was high-pitched and accusing. "Where have you been all morning? Mother's in a state! She's pacing you all over the place."

Sandra raised herself from the waist. She continued to gaze into the sea. What was the use? Val had found her. Darn Val, anyhow. Forever yapping.

Valerie Reynal came to where her sister sat, legs drawn up, brown arms hugging knees. Carolyn Courtlandt, a short girl done in curves and dimples, loitered in Valerie's wake.

"Look here, Sandra!" Valerie, who was tall and pale, and might one day be shrewish, stood frowning down at the figure on the sand, which as yet gave no sign of sensing angst but the pounding of the surf. "I say—oh, you're ought to be a law against relatives!" Sandra rose, faced her sister. "Go on," she demanded, "what's the grand alarm?"

"How should I know?" Valerie's eyes, slate-blue and fringed with pale lashes, avoided Sandra's. "You'd better go home. From the way mother's carrying on, she needs money." Sandra finished the sentence, turning her head.

"Haven't a scrap left," Sandra carolled gaily. "Used it all up last night and coughed her. You've ruined it. Such a nice, clean morning, too."

Sandra wheeled and trotted along the beach toward the Bath Club. In front of which a colony of brilliant striped umbrellas mushroomed on the sand. She heard Valerie's voice shrilling after her. "What's you cut through the dunes, it's shorter!" Sandra slowed her pace, and would have swung to the right as Valerie suggested had she not caught sight of a man bobbing along the beach in her direction. Gilbert Akin. A malicious smile played on her lips as she shouted over her shoulder at the two girls behind. "Wouldn't help you in the least if I did. He's mine!"

Sandra stopped, raised her arm high in salute, waited for the man to reach her. He returned her salute, quickened his pace.

"What's this—sunrise bathing party?" he hailed Sandra. His smile was good. It overlaid the sallowness of his hollow cheeks, chased the shadows from unnaturally burning eyes. He was dead, saturned almost. Sandra thought his shoulders were drooping more than usual.

"No party, Gil," she said, holding out her hands. "Just the usual family brawl."

"How about changing our course, then? The enemy's bearing down." The two girls fairly leaped toward him, turned and were coming toward them.

"As far as the club," Sandra agreed. "Got to report to mother. Race you for it."

They were off in the direction of the bright umbrellas, and flying at their heels. They finished neck and neck. Gilbert Akin complaining that unfair advantage had been taken of him inasmuch as he had already run one marathon this morning trying to catch up with Sandra.

"Give it up, Gil, ol' dear," Sandra advised, stamping the sand from her feet. "You'll get no place and come to no good chasing me."

VII—THE MEALS OF BIRDS.

Man has a great enemy—the insect; and a great friend—the bird. Without birds, it is likely that insects would overrun the earth and destroy our food supply.

so the wind would carry the words away from Valerie's companion.

"Perhaps," Valerie said. And added with a shrug of her shoulders, "Heaven knows if I were to see a $5 bill I'd swoon."

Sandra laughed. A strangled laugh that got no farther than her throat. "You're not in the least danger of swooning, old dear," she said, secretly delighted that she had stung Valerie. "Hi, Bubbles!" addressing Carolyn Courtlandt, "how's the wake?"

The pudgy nose of Carolyn Courtlandt—"Bubbles"—to her friends of the younger set—came up into the air. "I wouldn't know, you being so cryptic," she said. Really, Sandra Reynal ought to be suppressed! That she should have the nerve to rag her Bubbles, about what all Sandharbor was chuckling over—the collapse of her affair with the Baron Rene le Farge, just when it seemed she had brought him safely to port—

"Oh, I say now!" Sandra mimicked Bubbles' attempt at hauteur. "Honestly, darling, Lady Luck must love you a lot to give you a break like she has—ridding you of that slimy little Belgian."

"Sandra! Valerie Reynal expostulated, catching at Carolyn's arm and aligning herself with the victim of this bald attack.

"How dare you speak that way of Rene!" Carolyn cried, tears of anger spilling over her round cheeks. "After the way you pursued him, too!"

"Why Bubbles! What's wrong with your eyesight? Haven't I had the proud baron under my feet like kick him off?"

"Hell-cat!" Carolyn choked hysterically, advancing toward Sandra. "Don't listen to her, Bubbles. Valerie soothed, holding to Carolyn's arm and dragging her back. "She's positively gazing when she's like that. Sandra, you go to mother if you have enough decency left to care what happens."

"Haven't a scrap left," Sandra carolled gaily. "Used it all up last night and coughed her. You've ruined it. Such a nice, clean morning, too."

Sandra wheeled and trotted along the beach toward the Bath Club. In front of which a colony of brilliant striped umbrellas mushroomed on the sand. She heard Valerie's voice shrilling after her. VII—THE MEALS OF BIRDS.

Man has a great enemy—the insect; and a great friend—the bird. Without birds, it is likely that insects would overrun the earth and destroy our food supply.

Geese eat grass. Humming birds sip the nectar of flowers. Cuckoos like hairy caterpillars. Secretary birds kill snakes and use them for food.

Hawks feed on field mice, snakes and chipmunks; some kinds (but not all) prey on other birds, including poultry.

Many times farmers have made "war" against crows; and this very year I have read of their doing so in some sections. It seems wise to keep down the number of these birds, for they damage the corn crop and sometimes rob nests of well-liked birds. On the other hand, crows destroy cutworms and eat insects "by the bushel."

It is best that farmers should not get rid of them altogether; and probably that will never happen, for there are wild birds.

Fish, clams, snails, frogs, weed seeds and cherries are among the other items of food in the bird world. Certain birds, rooks for example, have been watched while they took clams to a height and let them drop on gravel along the shore—in order to break the shell.

A Chimney Swift. When I class insects as our enemies, I do not mean that all kinds are harmful. Bees supply us with honey and wax, and are friendly enough if they don't sting us. Other insects help in other ways; but in general the insect tribe is made up of public enemies which attack grain, fruit and garden plants. As it is, they are a great deal of harm; but if birds did not eat billions of them each year, our crops would become things of the past—unless we showed more skill in fighting them than we have to date.

Birds do not eat insects in order to help us—they do it to get meals. Most birds eat insects from time to time, and some gobble up so many as to have room for little else.

Insects, however, form only part of the story. Birds eat so many things that they remind me of an "ad" which is supposed to have been run by a man who wanted to sell a dog.

"Merry Wives of Reno" Proves Disappointing

New feature at the Georgia theater, which started Monday, is "Merry Wives of Reno," with Guy Kibbee, Glenda Farrell, Donald Woods, Margaret Lindsay, Ruth Donnelly, Hugh Herbert, Frank McHugh, etc.

It is billed as a comedy and strives hard, but ineffectually, to live up to this billing. Chief fault for its failure must be laid at the door of its authors, or perhaps the gag men. For the alleged humor, both as to situations and dialog, is the type to create yawns rather than laughter. The cast, normally competent, makes the best of poor material.

Not only are the gags stale, they weren't very funny even when new, probably in the days when Nero introduced the first comedy relief at the Roman amphitheater.

It is the ancient story about married couples who cannot get along together. One wife who becomes crude and loud whenever her suspicions are aroused and another who becomes proud and fearful. After the customary misunderstandings, which could never occur outside of an institution for the mentally deficient, the entire cast moves to Reno, where hordes of women repeat once more all the stock jokes about divorce—jokes not in the best taste for the vast majority of happily married people, anyway.

The best thing on the program is a short subject showing scenes and customs in Morocco. This "Magic Carpet" series of travel shorts is one of the best now on the market.

—RALPH T. JONES.

Good Film at Capitol, Stage Bill Mediocre

"Long Lost Father," screen attraction now at the Capitol theater, is not at all bad entertainment. In fact it would be difficult for any picture with John Barrymore in the star spot to prove a total loss.

While the story and situations this time are by no means new, yet the dialogue is clever and its sparkle makes of the production something you can sit through quite comfortably. The plot is really the old one about the missing father who turns up in time to save his neglected daughter from disaster and set her upon the orthodox road to content and happiness with the upstanding young hero. And the villain is foiled by the illicit trickery of the reprobate father.

Then the father again fades from the picture so that daughter may not be shamed in her new respectability. You know.

The program includes too many short screen subjects and one of them, a Charles Chase subject, has, if memory is not at fault, been shown at least two other theaters previously. Or possibly I saw it twice before at the same theater.

The stage performance is centered around one Jack McBride and orchestra dubbed "the barbarians." Fourteen of them including the local musicians who fill in several spots. The orchestra is fully 50 per cent of the show and it proves of fairly good run-of-mine organization.

In addition there are five girls who dance, a little fellow who doubles as crooner and dancer, another mangle and a comedian. Not including the M. C., presumably Jack McBride himself who is funny in spots but tends to become a trifle tiresome before his performance is over.

Some of the girls dance acceptably and, in one number, they all do "the bumps," which is a dance movement frequently seen in burlesque, where it belongs quite properly, but which defies literal explanation in a newspaper of general circulation.

RALPH T. JONES.

Helen Reed Again Wins Applause at Atlanta

That tall, dark and shapely girl, Helen Reed, again took first honors, measured by applause, on Monday night at the Atlanta theater, in the new burlesque production presented the usual burlesque queen and she seems to possess just what the customers appreciate.

Measuring the show as a whole, by comparison, it is a better performance this week than last.

For one thing, the comedians were funnier, more at home, probably, and advance in humor quality was counterbalanced by omission of most of the overdone of rawness they gave us last week.

The chorus line had more to do this week, which was also an asset. Numbers of the girls in that line are capable of putting on specialty acts that surpass many of the performances of the regular featured people. The two blondes in a sister tap, for instance, got away with their stunts nicely and the singing trio repeated the success they won last week.

A big asset to the company, new this week, is Joe Krovak, an eccentric dancer. Don't know how many in the audience knew it last night, but the sailor dance he did in the first half was the same dance that scored a big hit in Mae West's Broadway show, "Sex."

Marie DeVoe worked hard, in solo songs, strips and in some of the comedy acts. The straight singer—whose name I don't know, got a nice hand with his number, "Marching Home."

The crowd wasn't as large as last Monday but those who were there seemed to appreciate the entertainment. At any rate, they cheered freely, all kinds of acts.

Four new people, supposed to have been in the show, have gone astray somewhere en route. Their trunks have reached the theater via express, but the quartet, coming by auto, haven't put in an appearance. They will jump into the show as soon as they get here—a new straight man, new comedian and two new girls for the line.

White Sees Better Times

The south is leading in recovery and better business is evident everywhere, C. H. White Jr., left, said Monday. He is general sales manager of the American Sugar Refining Company and a native of Barnesville. He is shown with C. L. Crabb, Atlanta broker, with whom, and with Howard Nix, Atlanta representative, he conferred Monday.

Kidnaped Carolinian Reports Self Free

GREENVILLE, S. C., May 21.—(AP)—Some hours after he was reported to have been abducted by four men and a woman in a dark green sedan, John Mack Gregory, young Greenville man, early tonight called his mother here, Mrs. E. M. Gregory, over long distance from Columbia, S. C., and reported that he was unharmed and expected to return home shortly.

Sheriff B. B. Smith, after a conference with Mrs. Gregory, left here at 7:30 p. m. for Columbia, accompanied by two deputies. What action, if any, the Greenville officers expected to take in the case could not be ascertained.

Police reported early today that Gregory had been abducted as he stood on the porch of a store in a suburban section less than a block from his home, and an extensive search was started for the automobile in which he was whisked away.

F. D. R. Refuses To Clear Ex-Guardsman's Record

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today vetoed a bill to change the record of Joe G. McInerney to an honorable discharge although he was discharged from the coast guard service in 1902 for insubordination.

"The bill is objectionable," said the president in his veto message to congress, "as it would tend to break down the morale of the service and be prejudicial to proper discipline to place the name of a man who had been dishonorably discharged for cause by proper authority, upon the list of honorably discharged members of the coast guard on the same plane with those who have rendered faithful service."

The Ball Club Is the Thing That Counts

It is now being demonstrated—I refer to one of my pet theories—that the arrangement of the schedule doesn't matter. What does matter is the ball club.

All the protests about the injustice done our boys by giving them more home games in the latter part of the season and few in the first stages, are all wrong. That is, they are wrong if you have the ball club.

If, of course, your ball club is a shambling lot of misfits, it is perfectly true it will draw a few crowds early in the season before the fans get wise. And none at all in the last half when the fans are wise.

But if your ball club is up in there kicking up dust and snapping at the heels of the leader, or maybe out in front, the time to have the home ball games is in July, August and September. That's when a real ball club up in the race will draw its crowds.

The Crackers have drawn 53,353 fans in 11 home games. Had not rain interfered, the total would have been near 60,000. The team of 1933 drew only 79,207 for the entire home season. And it would not have mattered whether that ball club had all its home games in the early part of the season. It would have drawn no more. It was a shoddy outfit.

The Crackers have drawn more than 50,000 and the fans are just getting warmed up. If this team continues in the race, the park will be jammed through all those lovely home stays of July and August. There will be more interest.

A real ball club in the race draws its greatest crowds in the last half when the pennant is hanging on every game. And so the schedule doesn't matter. Every club has 77 home games. The thing that does matter is the ball club. Never blame the schedule.

THE ATTENDANCE RECORD.

The Southern association attendance record, strangely enough, belongs to that little coal and iron village in Alabama, Birmingham.

In 1927, when the steel furnaces were yelling for more men and when wages were something like $70 per day for wheelbarrow men, Birmingham slugged 299,150 paying guests through the turnstiles. Atlanta was next with 284,611 fans in 1925.

The Crackers have a real chance to beat that record this year. It depends on the ball club. If we can stay up in there and battle the Nashville Vols and the other threats, the attendance figures will grow faster than a scandal rumor.

The ball club determines the turnstile totals—not the schedule.

We should be well past last year's total before mid-June has been reached. And when July and August comes—then we'll see some crowds.

THE HARRY KELLY MYSTERY.

Harry Kelly, the big dose of pitching poison on the Memphis squad, is one of the current mysteries of baseball. He has, across a stretch of 11 years, all but dominated the Southern association.

Other, and seemingly less able pitchers, have gone and made good in the major leagues. Kelly has never stuck in the big show.

This year he is off to a great start. He has pitched seven games and won seven. Since his start in 1924 he can point to but one year as a poor one. That was in 1926 with Birmingham. His rather remarkable record is:

Year	Club	G.	W.	L.	Pct.	IP	H.	R.	SO.	B.B.	E.R.
1924	Memphis	44	17	7	.667	216	208	96	86	2.87
1925	New Orleans	31	16	10	.615	200	215	99	47	54	3.74
1926	Birmingham	27	4	9	.308	117	155	71	25	34	4.23
1927	Memphis	38	12	10	.546	212	227	107	54	61	3.57
1928	Memphis	42	21	10	.667	234	234	91	72	59	2.38
1929	Memphis	28	11	12	.478	198	195	77	67	48	2.95
1930	Memphis	47	19	11	.633	246	257	123	37	77	3.92
1931	Memphis	49	20	16	.556	270	301	144	74	66	3.70
1932	Memphis	42	16	9	.640	230	253	118	73	59	3.72
1933	Memphis	45	21	13	.618	278	293	130	67	67	3.31
1934	Memphis	10	7	0	1.000	66	57	21	19	88

Kelly is scheduled to pitch against the Crackers today. The odds are he will win. The odds are always in favor of Harry Kelly. He holds the league record for winning the most games and for winning the most double-headers. He is the only pitcher left who can go in there and pitch double-headers.

THE IRON MAN ACT.

The iron man act in the pitching box has about faded from the scene. Once it was one of the features of the American game. On most any holiday or Saturday afternoon some big, strong-backed and steel-armed gentleman was likely to step out and pitch both games of a double-header.

The game probably exacts more today. The advent of the rabbit ball requires that the pitcher do a great deal more pitching than the boys did 20 years ago. Baseball records are unusually complete, but it would be interesting to know just what the difference would be in the number of balls pitched.

In the days of the 1-to-0 and the 2-to-1 ball games the pitcher didn't throw so often. The pitching chore has been made a great deal more difficult.

THE INTENTIONAL PASS.

Having peered at them giving an intentional pass to one or two of our minor league sluggers this season, I fail to become aroused over the evil of it and wonder more and more at the daffy rule which was adopted by the league during the past winter and rescinded after a two-week trial. It penalized the pitcher and his team rather tremendously for an intentional pass.

It seems to me that the penalty is severe enough in itself. When a team elects to purposely put a man on base it foregoes an opportunity to get a man out. It also gives to the opposition an extra base runner.

Which would seem to be penalty enough. There is nothing so terribly wrong with that scene.

LIASSO O. MOSELEY.

This is to congratulate the Winecoff hotel on the acquisition of L. O. Moseley as manager. He is the ideal hotel manager. And I trust he resumes the old custom of standing in front of his hotel for a few hours each day. Not a bad ad and I always liked the idea.

GIANTS CHECK CARDS AS ROOKIE PITCHES VICTORY

Fitzsimmons Hurt, Bowman Wins for New York, 5 to 2.

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP)—The World Champions today survived another pitching emergency today and checked the onrushing St. Louis Cardinals with a 5-2 victory at the expense of "Wild Bill" Hallahan.

An accident to Fat Freddy Fitzsimmons, who was struck in the side by a loose bat just as he started to warm up, forced Manager Bill Terry to put the pitching burden on the recruit, Joe Bowman. After being hit for a home run by Burgess Whitehead, the first batter to face him, Bowman pitched himself out of subsequent danger and finished strongly with the aid of brisk defense.

The Giants tied the score on Travis Jackson's home run against the upper rightfield stand, with Home Run on base, in the fourth. Terry's Texas League single to left, Joe Medwick misjudged, enabled Joe Moore to raise home with the winning run from first in the fifth inning.

As a crowning touch to his late inning difficulties, Hallahan passed Jackson intentionally to fill the bases in the eighth, whereupon Blondy Ryan smashed a single to center, tallying Ott and Peel with the runs that sewed up the ball game.

Hallahan was cuffed for nine safeties, besides issuing five walks, while Bowman spaced the eight hits he yielded. The Cardinals threatened to go on a rampage in the third, eighth and ninth, but twice were stopped without scoring. Joe Moore ended the third inning attack by hauling down a tremendous wallow by Virgil Davis to the left field bull-pen, 450 feet from the plate.

NOT SERIOUS.

Fitzsimmons, after being hit by a bat that escaped from Jim Mooney's hands, was examined in the clubhouse and found not seriously hurt. The big right-hander was bruised, however, and may not be able to pitch for several days. The accident further upset the Giants' pitching staff, which has been on a makeshift basis since Roy Parmelee was laid low with appendicitis.

PRACTICE SHOOT OPENS PROGRAM THIS AFTERNOON

Jack Tway Gives Remarkable Performance at S. C. State Shoot.

By Jack Troy.

Modest young Jack Tway whose gun club, the Capitol, is host this week to the southern zone trapshoot which ranks second only to the Grand American, has just returned from Spartanburg, S. C., where he enjoyed the finest shooting of his career. Tway, not being a native of South Carolina, was not eligible for the all-around championship. But his performance at the traps was the best seen in the south in many, many years.

Arturo Cuscaden, the fat boy from Tampa who spends his days laughing and shooting and enjoying life to the fullest, revealed the great shooting of Jack Tway yesterday. Jack, himself, was too busy making plans for the southern zone, which starts with a practice shoot today, to think about it.

"It was the best shooting I ever saw," said Cuscaden, one of the leading professionals in the game. "There were 400 targets—200 10 yards, 100 handicap and 100 doubles. Well, sir, Jack broke 197 10 yards, 90 from the 23-yard line and 97 doubles. He only missed 10 in 400 mixed targets. Man, it was remarkable."

Man, you're telling me!

NEW YORK, May 21.—(P)—Stocks drifted listlessly today through the dull season in a decline.

In five hours of colorless trading, transfers on the stock exchange totaled only 382,190 shares, the smallest recorded since June 2, 1933.

Stagnation in prices set in following a broad rally in which last week became more pronounced as Wall Street waited for President Roosevelt's message on silver, scheduled tomorrow, and for further light on potential effects on federal control of stock exchanges.

Anticipation of the silver message stirred up a little buying in metal shares and strength in that group helped to improve the undercurrent in the general market.

The day's news contained nothing to stimulate interest in either the buy or the selling side.

Net gains of fractions to 3 points were made by leading metal shares, including American Smelting & Refining, U. S. Smelting, Howden and Cordero de Pasa, American Telephone, American Can, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Bethlehem Steel and other trading favorites.

Most commodities moved narrowly with stocks. Wheat and corn dropped about 1-2 cent a bushel. Rye and oats were mixed and little changed on the day.

Silver futures scored moderate gains. Cotton sold off, finishing 40-55 cents a bushel. Rubber and sugar advanced a little.

With trading in bonds the smallest since last October, the market held steady, as did foreign exchanges against the dollar.

For the moment, business news offered little in the way of incentive toward buying. Routine statistics indicated recession in business activity continued last week, although it was not great enough to cause much uneasiness.

The American Iron & Steel Institute estimated steel operations had declined to 54.2 per cent of capacity from 56.6 per cent a week ago, the first important setback since the recent sharp increase in steel output.

Senate Body Approves U. S. Cotton Aid Bill

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(P)—The senate agriculture committee today approved a bill authorizing an appropriation of $100,000 to finance agencies established by the secretary of agriculture for the handling, insuring and marketing of any cotton in the government's possession or control.

The secretary also would be empowered to borrow on such cotton from the RFC to the full market value of the government's interest.

Restrictions Removed.

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 21.—(P)—President Vargas today removed restrictions on foreign exchange in all transactions except Brazilian exports, from which the government has retained the right to obtain exchange freely.

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.

FENNER & BEANE—We favor the cotton silver movement over the silver movement. Although it is hardly worth while to draw conclusions from seasonal reports as we witnessed Monday, we would judge that the movement favors the up-side.

DOBS & CO.—We should expect the market to be somewhat more active Thursday.

COTTON OPINIONS.

FENNER & BEANE—The character of the present cotton silver movement is likely to dominate the market Tuesday. Technical conditions, however, are good and the market is not to make good progress.

DOBS & CO.—We should expect the market to be somewhat more active Thursday.

GRAIN OPINIONS.

FENNER & BEANE—The market is sensitive to selling pressure on rallies through the week but not extend far. This permits foreign selling groups to buy at a profit.

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP)—Bond market prices maintained a firm undertone today, although the trading volume was almost as pronounced as that of stocks.

Transfers totaled only $8,219,000, par value, compared with $13,577,000 last Friday.

The aggregate was the smallest since October 3, 1933. The average for 60 domestic corporate issues was unchanged at 89.2.

Most traders expected the market to be inclined to suspend operations while waiting for further developments at Washington. The decline in steel production was being watched closely for indications of recessions in other industries.

United States government securities showed a turnover of some $2,700,000, and the majority registered declines of 1/32 to 7/32 of a point.

The rails, as a group, showed some improvement. Gainers included the Louisville & Nashville, Washburn second 5s lost 3 1/2 points.

American Writing Paper Co. got up 2 points and moderate advances were recorded by loans of American Telephone & Electric Co., McKesson, Mead Corporation, Otis Steel, International Telephone & Telegraph.

TARZAN AND THE CITY OF GOLD

No. 50

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

"There is something mysterious about you I cannot fathom; you have piqued my curiosity," said Nemone to Tarzan. "And when that is satisfied you will kill me?" asked the ape-man, a half-smile curving his lip. "Perhaps," admitted Nemone. "Come—sit beside me."

When Tarzan obeyed, she continued: "I know that in your own country you are a slave; your every act has proved it. Perhaps you are a king? Tarzan shook his head. "I am Tarzan," he said, as though that explained everything, setting him above kings.

"What difference does it make?" he asked. "You might make a king, but he would still be a king? A sudden frown darkened Nemone's countenance. "What do you mean by that?" she demanded, a suggestion of anger in her tone.

"You may call a jackal a lion; but he will still be a jackal," he said. "Do you know that I am supposed to be very fond of you?" she demanded. "Don't drive my patience too far!" Tarzan shrugged, saying: "You show very poor taste." Nemone's eyes flashed with anger.
